

For Immediate Release

Contact: Brian White
bwhite@convergedns.com
972-690-9491 x435

Converged Solutions Firm Breaks Stealth in Dallas

Addressing significant demand for telecom convergence and IMS driven professional services

DALLAS – June 1, 2005 – Converged Network Solutions (CNS) (<http://www.convergedns.com>), a convergence and IMS focused professional services company, has been unveiled by Incucomm. Matthew Bowers, President of CNS, explained that the company focuses on strategy development, technology evaluation, product customization, installation and integration, and interoperability testing for convergence and IMS driven systems.

“It has been impressive to watch the CNS team launch their business so quickly,” said Steve Roerman, CEO of Incucomm. “CNS built an impressive team and gained a foothold in the telecom marketplace in a very short period of time. The CNS team includes people who are internationally recognized names, and have remarkable customer relationships.”

CNS is one of the companies that have been developing in a stealth mode at Incucomm. The company’s seasoned personnel have developed and deployed a number of converged wireless and wireline solutions and can bring an end-to-end network perspective in support of clients. CNS provides a full spectrum of services focused on assisting clients with the strategy, development, implementation, and management of next generation converged networks. Service offerings include strategy development, technology evaluation, product customization, installation and integration, and interoperability testing.

#####

About Converged Network Solutions – CNS is setting the benchmark for quality, delivering advanced professional services to the communications industry. Our team brings together hundreds of person-years of experience from such firms as SBC, Verizon, Marconi Wireless, Ericsson, Motorola, Raytheon, Texas Instruments, and Mobilestar. CNS personnel planned, built, tested, deployed and managed some of the most advanced wireline and wireless networks and equipment in the world.

About Incucomm – Founded in 2000 and based in Dallas, Texas, Incucomm is a venturing and strategic consulting firm built around a seasoned team of strategy, business and technology professionals. Incucomm's venturing activities focus on the telecommunications and information technology markets with a particular emphasis on wireless hardware, software and services. Incucomm's consulting activities are focused on providing strategic consulting services to more mature companies including large and medium publicly traded companies, venture backed firms, venture investors and law firms. Incucomm is also the developer and owner of iMEMS<sup>TM</sup>, one of the most advanced decision analysis tools available for business use today.

For more information, contact Brian White at (972) 690-9491 ext. 435, or via e-mail at bwhite@convergedns.com.

##